

Press Conference on the 100 days of the Government of Xanana Gusmao,
Known as AMP Government (Alliance of Majority Members of Parliament)
November 13, 2007

LABEH established a Task Force Team composed of 10 staff Members of LABEH from Department of Transparency and Accountability & Combating Corruption, Advocacy & Monitoring, Budget Monitoring and Education and Capacity Development departments to Monitor the one hundred (100) days of the new government, through our program Community Based Monitoring System on the 15th day of August 2007 after the President of the Republic Dr. Jose Ramos Horta announced his decision to asked the Alliance of Majority Members of Parliament to form the IV Constitutional Government. There were elements and groups who opposed the decision of the President of the Republic and thereby created a pocket of insecurity in some parts of the country.

In these 100 days of monitoring the government activities, the Team found that the government is working towards the right direction but needs time to fulfill its short term programs as presented and approved by the National Parliament on September 2007. There were 9 short term programs presented by the Prime Minister Xanana Gusmao to the Parliament including security in Dili and in the Districts, the return of the IDPs, the problem of the Petitioners, the problem of Major Alfredo and his group, international audit of the former government, present the transitory state budget to the Parliament, mechanism to control the government fund allocated to the Xefe Suku and community development fund and combating corruption.

In our observation about the whole government which we called “LABEH Government Watch” the Task Force Team noted that there are still some members of the government that has not being appointed yet in other to complete the nomination of the government appointees, the Task Force Team noted that the government is working so hard to building trust and credibility among the population, but the government credibility and trust can only be enhanced and achieved only through a government service delivery to the population, the ability of the government to deliver services to the people would determine the credibility of the government in the eyes of the public.

The Task Force Team noted that there are five top ministries leading the government activities in the right direction within these 100 days, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Corporation, the Minister of Health, the Minister of Development and Economy, the Minister of Industry and Tourism and the Minister of Finance, we also noted the activities of the Secretary of State for Security, and the Secretary of State for Youth and Sport, these people deserves our congratulation during these 100 days of the activities of the government.

Ministries and Secretaries of State should work towards the government policy to ensure service delivery to the people, of which without, it would be difficult for the government to build trust and credibility in the eyes of the people. The Task Force Team recognized that the former government left behind numerous problems that now awaiting the government of AMP to resolve, the ability of the government to resolve these problems would build the trust and credibility of the government to continue to the end of its five year mandate.

The Task Force Team noted some protest against the Secretary of State for Defense, the Secretary of State for Defense Mr. Julio Thomas Pintu was received with a demonstration during his visit to Metinaro within the 100 days of his new post as the Secretary of State by a group of people not comfortable with the appointment and the government of AMP. Recently another group of people protested against the Secretary of State for Professional Formation and Employment Mr. Bendito Freitas for not responding positively to their proposal for formation. The ability of the Ministers and the Secretaries of State including the civil servants working in the government to pass a rightful and useful information to the public would stop most of the protest against the government, it is also important to inform the public on any new developments relating to them on a timely manner without waiting too long for the public to seek information through their own means that might lead to constant protest against the government.

Our Team found that most of these short term programs have begun, some have been achieved and others are ongoing and some are still in the process.

- Security.

The Task Force Team noted that in the area of security, there have been sporadic outbreaks of violence in some parts of Timor-Leste, some related to the activities of other Armed Groups encouraged by sources not comfortable under the peace atmosphere and others attributable to sectional clashes over the issue of who has the right to lead the new government. Over one year now our people have been condemned to insecurity, loss of human dignity, displacement from their homes, disease and all forms of deprivation due to the crisis. Segments of our population, notably in Dili, are still unable to enjoy peace in its fullest sense due to the crisis and armed civilian's activities. The menace which some ruthless leaders poses to our people must be eliminated once and for all, whether in peaceful means or otherwise. In seeking an end to the destruction of lives and property that the groups continues to inflict on our people, no option should be ruled out by the police. The government should take appropriate action to stop this menace, meanwhile urging the Timor-Leste Police PNTL and the UN Police to take robust action against the armed groups in keeping with its obligation under the constitution.

The crisis is now over, and apart from pockets of insecurity in some parts of the country, there is generally, peace all over the country now. The most important duty of the PNTL would be the provision of protection and security for everybody that resides in Timor-Leste be they citizens or foreigners. And while we cannot claim that the security situation in Timor-Leste has been completely normalized, we can at least assert that we have fared better than last year. Notwithstanding the preoccupation with the security concerns, one primary mission of the Police Force is to safeguard and maintain law and order generally to ensure that the population lives in peace. In the broader national context, another Police duty that is no less important than the protection of the constitution is the task of ensuring that the process of democratic political transformation does not veer off course. To fulfill these missions, the Police should embark on an extensive capacity building program aimed at transforming it into an effective and efficient modern professional Police. The government should use its own resources and further solicit support from external sources as stipulated by the National Constitution, to furnish the Police personnel with both military as well as essential non-military skills in addition to equipment. On the other hand, fights involving firearms are no longer on the rise. Firm steps should be taken to ensure that AMP deal mercilessly with all crimes involving guns, including the illegal possession of firearms. The government through the Secretary of State for Security and UNpol together with the assistance of Australia and New Zealand Forces has reduced the security threats in the country during this 100 days, the Secretary of State for Security deserves our congratulations.

- IDPs (Internal Displaced Persons)

The Task Force Team found that the return of the IDPs is still ongoing, there has being a process of dialogue with the representatives of the IDPs and the distribution of new tenders are now going on to change the old once, though the AMP government was unable to send all the IDPs home during this 100 days due to the nature of the case of the IDPs that looks more political than humanitarian, the ability of the AMP government to understand that the issue of the IDPs are very political is important in other to resolve their problems through a strong political policy. The ability of the AMP government to deliver services to the people would be the evidence of trust that the people would show to the government. The two million US dollars allocated to the IDPs in a short-term should have being able to produce a sustainable effect to the thousands of the IDPs in the country. The call of the new government to send the IDPs home should have being maintained by the government under no political pressure should the government changed its strategies and vision of bringing the IDPs home in a short-term.

The return of the IDPs and the rebuilding of the homes and infrastructure will help not only in the field of economic development and promotion of trade but also in facilitating the return and settlement of our internally displaced persons (IDPS). It will also boost the transport industry and thereby create more employment opportunities. The central message of unity, tolerance, acceptance and peace is not for the leaders of the country to sit in front of the television, radio or newspapers requesting the people to “Simu Malu” without any concrete enforcement of the law that would never allow the people to take laws into their hands. Now that there is a wind of change in the minds of the people to accept each other, (Simu Malu) the government must ensure that the return of the IDPs is sustainable. The ability of the new government to understand that the issues of the IDPs in the country are political is very important in other to address it once and for all, rather than basing its arguments on humanitarian ground that would not bring any sustainability to the conditions and welfares of the IDPs. Any investment for the IDPs should have a lasting solution than any artificial solution that would make the new government look incapable of resolving the problems of the IDPs which in turn would be a political campaign by the opposition against the government of AMP. Peace does not necessarily mean the absence of war. Peace is the absence of fear! There is no genuinely peace now in Timor-Leste because some of the people live in fear. Fear destroys the people and brings a huge consequence to the nation. It paralyses the legs and the development of a nation.

- The problem of the Petitioners

The Task Force Team noted that the process of dialogue with the petitioners and F-FDTL to implement the recommendation of the Commission of Notavis is in the process but the AMP government has left the population wondering if the issue of the petitioners and that of Major Alfredo should be treated in one packet, there has being misunderstanding and misinterpretation of the public on these two issues, including among the leaders, different statements has been made by the leaders in regards to the issue. The ability of the government to inform the public on these two issues are very important to determine the current politics of the new government on these issues, though the government has appointed a spokes person or a representative of the government on the subject matter but this new appointment has not changed the perception of the public on the issue. It would be a great victory to the credibility of the government, if the problems of the petitioners are resolved within six months of the government starting from the date of forming the government.

- The problem of Major Alfredo

The Task Force Team noted that the process of dialogue with Major Alfredo and his group is on the process, the AMP government has made unnumbered contacts with Major Alfredo and several meetings has taken place in different places and times, we hope that this commitment would result in a lasting solution, though the AMP government did not have any public dialogue with Major Alfredo during this 100 days.

- Granting Community Development and Monitoring the Community Development Fund.

The Task Force Team noted that electricity services have suffered the fate of all other services during these 100 days. Though the AMP government has being working very hard to resolve the problem of electricity, a 4 million US$ dollars has being allocated for new generators. There is an urgent need for rehabilitation of damaged or abandoned electrical generators, and construction of new power stations and the installation of new generators wherever feasible.

The Task Force Team noted also that the government through the Ministry of Agriculture and State Administration has never made any concrete steps known to the public on any new criteria of fiscal liaising the fund distributed to Xefe do Sukus for construction of Sede do Suku and for community development fund during this 100 days. Their task should have been to create an enabling environment that supports indigenous livestock and fisheries producers and investors to maximize production, marketing and fish products, while ensuring sustainability for the natural resource base. This shall be realized through the eradication of economic diseases and capacity building in technical and business skills, it would have been better for the two ministries to prepare the criteria or regulation for the Xefi do Sukus on the implementation of the allocated funds through a public participation on the community development program as indicated in the short term program of the government.

Though there has being other activities going on in these two ministries but does not really based on the short term program of the government but rather based on the total program of the two ministries. The priorities of the ministry of Agriculture should be the timely provision of inputs to all households, mobilization and motivation of the farming communities to engage in agricultural production. This will improve the standard of nutrition by increasing output, quality, access and availability of food for consumption. Strategic mechanization, particularly in areas of high productivity, should be a central part of his policy. Similarly, new technology should be introduced in a longer term with the aim to increase productivity of both labor and land, which will in turn lead to the establishment of food processing and marketing facilities in the rural areas.

The Livestock and Fisheries sector is important since over millions heads of livestock and a potential of fish catches ranging to thousand tons per year exists in Timor-Leste. That potential is capable of making a significant contribution to food security and national economic growth. Already these two sectors directly or indirectly provide employment and means of livelihood to thousands of households. The protein requirement of the population of Timor-Leste can be satisfied through adequate and rational exploitation and sustainable development of these sectors. The vision of this is therefore the achievement of sustainable livestock and fisheries production levels (quantities and qualities) that bring benefits to producers and satisfy consumers' demand for animal protein, while contributing to poverty eradication and economic growth in the country.

- International Audit and Reformation of Public Administration

The Task Force Team noted that within these 100 days there has never being any international audit farm named by the government to audit the former government, but there has being some internal audit going on now in most of the ministries, yet a number of statements has been recorded by our team on the issue of international audit which has not being translated into action.

The Task Force Team noted that the formulation of new laws, including subsidiary legislations governing recruitment, appointment, terms and conditions of service, disciplinary procedures and dismissal of personnel are on the process. As an integral part of our human resource development strategy institutional capacity building programs across all sectors should be stepped up under the guidance and supervision of the ministry of State Administration. In this regard, there should be a survey of Public Service Personnel in the country due to there are over 8000 contracts of civil savants which are not recognized as permanent civil servants which might create a social problem in the future if it is not well addressed. The AMP Government should establish an electronic personnel database in the near future and an interim policy for appointment of key officials and core staff pending the good formulation of a public service law in place.

The Task Force Team noted that in the area of promoting good governance and combating corruption the AMP government has not demonstrated any reasonable political will to fight corruption in the public administration. e.g., there has never being any recorded strong statement from the Prime Minister on the issues of corruption within this 100 days, except during the program presentation in the Parliament, there has been an issue of indication of corruption in the process of purchasing maritime ship for PNTL and building cube house for PNTL and another issue of indication of corruption in TVTL and in STAE during these 100 days but there has never being a any strong statement from the government or any authority in regards to the matter. This confuses our attempt to understand the commitment of the government in fighting against corruption and promoting good governance and transparency and accountability.

- Ex combatants

The Task Force Team noted that there is now an ongoing verification of data's on the veterans through the Secretary of State for Veterans, and a two million US$ dollars has being allocated for that purpose to pay the Veterans as a pension for their contribution for the liberation of the country, though there has never being any report known to the public of how many Veterans received fund from the allocated found during this 100 days, but it is noted that next month most of the veterans would start to receive funds from the allocated fund and there has being some contracts of constructing new buildings for the Veterans in some districts started by the last government, some developed some questions among the Veterans, it is not yet known how the government is going to respond to the issue.

- Preparation of the Transitory State Budget

The Task Force Team noted that the transitory budget has being prepared and approved by the National Parliament for July-December 2007. It is now awaiting implementation.

- Preparation of the Annual General State Budget for 2008

The Task Force Team noted that the preparation for the 2008 state budget is now on going and would be submitted to the National Parliament next month for discussion and approval.

the Task Force Team having monitored the government activities for these 100 days concluded that the government is working towards its direction and needs a strong support from the people to implement its programs, therefore we recommend to all sectors to support the new government to implement its programs for the total benefit of the nation and the development of the country, request all groups and political parties to separate from any act of violence that would damage the peace and security so far achieved.

- Complaints and cases received from the population waiting for AMP government

These cases comes out of the Community Based Monitoring System started January this year in Dili and in other seven (7) districts to address the vital issues of the implementation of government fund allocated to Xefi do Suku for construction of Sede do Suku through the Ministry of State Administration and fund allocated for community development through the Ministry of Agriculture and other social issues, in the health, ambulance, water and sanitation, education, electricity, street traffic light and others.
